GENERAL INFORMATION

San Diego State University (SDSU) utilizes the Procurement Credit Card (PCC) to reduce the traditional paper and labor-intensive procurement process for small dollar purchases. With the ease of a widely accepted US Bank VISA credit card, SDSU employees may make walk-in purchases, place telephone orders, place Web orders and receive and confirm purchases.

The procurement credit card should be the primary means to obtain approved goods, supplies or services costing $4,000 and less (including tax and shipping) per transaction. Cardholders are encouraged to use the procurement credit card for low value purchases to achieve cost savings and improve processing time. If use of the PCC is not practical, existing methods such as a standard requisition may be used.

LEGAL REFERENCE AND AUTHORITY

The CSU authority to obtain goods is granted in Public Contract Code Section 10295. Procurement authority has been delegated to the campus president by Executive Order 760 and 775.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Each cardholder must sign the Acknowledgement and Responsibility Form upon receipt of card.

DECLINING BALANCE CARD (DBC)

San Diego State University (SDSU) offers the Declining Balance Card as part of the Procurement Credit Card Program. The declining balance card is an option for university departments who routinely purchase high volume, low dollar, repetitious goods or supplies from a specific vendor. The declining balance card is a convenient and flexible tool for obtaining goods and supplies from frequently used vendors.

Each declining balance card is designed to be used for one vendor only. The declining balance card is designated for a defined period of time with a set dollar amount. The set dollar amount of each declining balance card is determined annually based on historical purchases with a specific vendor and in coordination with the university department, Contract and Procurement Management and Accounts Payable. Upon issuance of the declining balance card, it becomes the university department's primary means of obtaining appropriate approved goods and supplies from the designated vendor for the card.

For example Accounts Payable would establish the declining balance card with XYZ vendor with a maximum amount of $10,000 for the period of July 1st – June 30th. When the maximum amount of $10,000 is exhausted the declining balance card could be cancelled or dollar amount reestablished depending on operational needs.

The declining balance card provides the department a quick spend analysis on a weekly basis across multiple accounts for goods obtained from the designated vendor. The declining balance card provides an alternative to issuance of a requisition for processing of an Open Purchase Order (OPO), monitoring the open purchase order and processing of a final close request to release any residual encumbrance at end of year. The declining balance card term may overlap fiscal years without concern of funds encumbered in different fiscal years.

The declining balance card is a component of the existing Procurement Credit Card Program and all requirements and responsibilities apply.

In order to apply for consideration of a declining balance card, departments should submit the Declining Balance Card Request for Participation form to Accounts Payable for review and approval by Accounts Payable and Contracts and Procurement Management. This form can be found at AP's website. <http://bfa.sdsu.edu/ap/forms.htm>
