Project Title: Fenton Parkway Bridge Project

Project Applicant Name, Address, Phone Number: San Diego State University

Project Location (include county) Northeast Mission Valley community of the City of San Diego, San Diego County, south of Fenton Parkway and north of Camino Del Rio North

Project Description: San Diego State University is proposing to construct the Fenton Parkway Bridge Project to connect Fenton Parkway, which currently terminates north of the river channel, with Camino Del Rio North, south of the river channel. The bridge would provide a vehicular, bicycle and pedestrian crossing that spans the San Diego River in the Mission Valley community of the City of San Diego (City). The proposed bridge will be approximately 450 feet long and 58 feet wide, and have 2 through-traffic lanes, a center lane for southbound left-turn movements onto Camino Del Rio North, and separated bicycle and pedestrian paths on either side of the bridge. It will have up to 4 spans supported on concrete seat-type abutments in the river embankments at each end and two to three piers within the river channel. The proposed bridge will be constructed on real property owned by the City and upon completion of construction, the City will own, operate, and maintain the proposed bridge.
